

Title of Motion Picture

The Pie Man.

Produced and Manufactured by
PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.
NEW YORK, N. Y.

Copyrighted

©C1M 2885

FEB 13 1925

©CLM 2885

THE PIE MAN

In the long, long ago pies were made and used as a food, dessert or what not--but, then along came motion pictures, and alas, pies are doomed, for nothing else but, all of which makes it pretty soft for pies.

Well, there's your story and you can guess the rest. But anyway we'll let you in on the dope--that there was an old-fashioned farmer who made pies and tried to sell them to the homeloving public. There also was a no good dog that was hungry and over across the lot he had some pals that would try anything once.

The no account starts things off by climbing up into the farmer's wagon and picking himself a nice ripe pie. The pie proves too much for him, so he calls in some of his hungry pals, they like it so much that he tells them the whole long story and his plan. Then very soon the dirty work starts. A flock of dizzy cats slide down off a roof and knock the pie farmer cuckoo and steal his basket full of pies. The rest of the rowdies raid the pie wagon.

When farmer Al comes too and returns to the wagon everyone is gone except stubby cat, who is furiously trying to get away with a great big pie, he sees the farmer and decides to put it back. This act of honesty makes a great impression on the pie man and he asks the cat to shake hands with him, but the stubborn little devil spits in his hand. Then comes the big struggle. The pie man chases the little cat all over the place. Little Stubby drags the pie man through a hole in the fence. Then forty million rowdy cats shower him with his own pies. A cop comes along to see what it is all about and gets a pie in the face. The cop and all the rowdy, hungry, growling dogs and cats chase the pie man into the distance.

Aesop says:--"Never put off 'til tomorrow what you can put off 'til the day after tomorrow."

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress